

Daniel Goon

Daniel began his journey into the musical world at the age of five learning the organ and piano under the Yamaha Junior Music Program.

His performing experience began with percussion classes with the Singapore Youth Orchestra in 1994. From then on, he has performed with bands and orchestras in Singapore as a multi-instrumentalist.

After graduating as a percussion major, Daniel continued to perform “live” with orchestras for several years before pursuing his other passion as a music arranger.

These days, his schedule is occupied with projects as a music arranger and music programmer/sound design for minus one tracks, dance tracks as well as music for multimedia and videos. Recent projects saw Daniel involved in arranging/composing music for National Day Parade and Chingay Parade.
